Canadian Rockies & Glacier National Park

JULY 18-24, 2023

Your tour of the Canadian Rockies features a drive along the incredible Icefields Parkway. Paralleling the Great Divide, this special roadway is home to some of the most dramatic vistas in all of North America. Here, snowcapped mountains engulf the landscape, casting shadows on the adjacent glacial streams. During the 1800's fur traders used a similar route. Highlighting your trip along the Icefields is a stop at the Athabasca Glacier, part of the Columbia Icefield – a dramatic 200 square mile stretch of land filled with glaciers. Here you may have an opportunity to ride across a 1,000 foot thick glacier or walk on the Glacier skywalk.

Glacier National Park is a naturalist's paradise. Glacier preserves over one million acres of forests, Alpine meadows and lakes, and is home to over 70 specials of mammals and 270 species of birds. Enjoy a ride aboard one of the Jammer cars – built in 1930's – along one of the most breathtaking roads in North America. Going-To-The-Sun Road stretches across the Continental Divide and offers incredible views of the valley and Glacier National Park.

You may choose to admire the glacier fed waters of Lake Louise, hike along the lakeshore or relax in the majesty that surrounds. All this and so much more on Classic trip to the Canadian Rockies and Glacier National Park. 🇨🇦

DO YOU NEED A FINANCIAL ADVISOR OR CAN YOU DO IT YOURSELF?

Whether you're a seasoned investor, or are starting your investing journey, you may benefit from talking to a professional to make sure your investing strategy aligns with your goals.

What is a Financial Advisor?

A personal financial advisor can create a personalized financial plan tailored to your current financial situation, personal preferences, and comfort with risk. Depending on the type of advisor you hire, some are legally required to act in your best interests. When searching for an advisor, be sure to understand how they get paid. There are many different fee structures, so it's important to determine before you start the manner in which you will pay your advisor, and how much, to make sure you are comfortable with the arrangement before committing to it.

Questions to Ask a Financial Advisor

The best financial advisor advice includes finding a trusted advisor who will communicate with you, and can help you make wise decisions based on your short and long-term goals. Consider these questions when deciding if a specific advisor is right for you.

- "What securities registrations and other certifications do you have?" Many advisors have specialized training in specific areas. Be sure your advisor has the skills and qualifications you need.
- "Will I work solely with you, or will others be involved?" Some advisors work alone, others are part of a team, with different individuals handling particular aspects of the relationship. Make sure you are comfortable with the approach the advisor uses.
- "What specific services do you and your firm offer?" Make sure the services provided by the advisor match up to your needs and desires. Some firms offer a wider array of specialties than others.
- "How do you charge for your services?" Some advisors may charge a commission on transactions or products, while others charge a fee based on the dollar amount they'd manage, or an hourly rate.

Working with an advisor is an investment in your future - while there is cost associated, it's something that can benefit your finances in the long run. That's why we offer a no obligation consultation - you can get to know the person who will be advising you, and just as importantly, for us to get to know you.

how to find A FINANCIAL ADVISOR

When exploring potential financial advisors, consider your goals and the type of financial advice you need - from estate planning to ways to boost your savings. Be sure your advisor is helping you prepare for any major life changes, like retirement or health care costs. Eventually, your savings may replace a steady paycheck, so it's important for your financial advisor to consider your specific needs.
